1 (Case called)

2 MR. KIM: Edward Kim, Michael Lockard, and Adam Fee
3 for the government. Good morning, your Honor.

4 THE COURT: How many does it take to change a light
5 bulb?

6 MR. NALVEN: For the defendant, Paul Nalven. Good
7 morning, your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Mr. Nalven, good to see you.

9 Mr. Linares Castillo, good morning to you.

10 I'll note for the record that Mr. Linares Castillo is 11 proceeding through the services of a court certified
12 interpreter. He is wearing a headset that allows him to hear
13 these proceedings translated from English into Spanish, which 14 is native language.

15 Mr. Linares Castillo, if at any point you have any 16 difficulty understanding these proceedings, please let me know,
17 whether it's a technical problem, perhaps just I'm not being 18 clear or maybe the lawyers are not being clear, perhaps the 19 translation is not clear. Whatever it is, we will correct it.
20 But we will rely on you to tell us when you are having 21 difficulty. All right?

22 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, your Honor.

23 THE COURT: This is an initial appearance for 24 Mr. Linares Castillo. He has been charged in indictment and he 25 has not been arraigned. I am the first judge he is seeing,

D4QMLINC

1 correct?

2 MR. NALVEN: That's correct, your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Let's just for a moment then, Mr. Linares
4 Castillo, I want to make sure that you understand your rights.
5 You have the right to remain silent. If you have spoken to 6 agents or law enforcement officers at this point already, you
7 don't have to continue if you don't want to. You have that 8 right. You also have the right to an attorney. Mr. Nalven is 9 representing you. If you did not have any ability to pay Mr.
10 Nalven, then a lawyer would be appointed to represent you at no
11 cost to you.

12 You understand that?

13 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, your Honor.

14 THE COURT: And I want to also make sure that you've 15 had a chance to see the indictment in this case. Have you seen
16 the indictment, which has a number on it. It's S2 11 Cr. 1054.

17 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, your Honor.

18 THE COURT: I am not arraigning him on the Florida
19 indictment. That's for another day, right?

20 MR. KIM: That is correct, your Honor.

21 THE COURT: It's not been transferred here.

22 Mr. Linares Castillo, do you read English?

23 THE DEFENDANT: No, your Honor.

24 THE COURT: This indictment is ten pages. It's in 25 English. Was it translated into Spanish for you?

D4QMLINC

1 MR. NALVEN: Your Honor, maybe I could speak to that.
2 As part of the extradition protocol between the United States
3 and Colombia, my client, in a timely fashion, was provided both
4 an English and a Spanish language version of the indictment.
5 I've been his lawyer since shortly after his arrest and have
6 visited him several times at his place in custody in Colombia.
7 We have gone over the substance of the indictment. And with 8 your Honor's permission, we would like to enter a plea of not 9 guilty.

10 THE COURT: Let's where I was headed. I wanted to 11 make sure that he has reviewed and read the indictment.

12 What Mr. Nalven just said is correct, Mr. Linares
13 Castillo?

14 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Would you like me to read this indictment
16 out loud here in court, or do you waive the public reading of 17 the indictment?

18 MR. NALVEN: I'd like to waive it, your Honor.

19 THE COURT: That's fine and that's not uncommon, that 20 a defendant would waive that right, but it's really Mr. Linares
21 Castillo's decision.

22 Mr. Linares Castillo, I'm happy to read the 23 indictment, which would then be translated into Spanish for you
24 to hear it. But if you feel that's not necessary, if you've 25 already read the Spanish translation and you are already

D4QMLINC

1 comfortable that you understand what's in the indictment,
2 that's fine, then you could just tell me that you don't wish to
3 have it read out loud.

4 THE DEFENDANT: I don't want you to read it to me
5 aloud.

6 THE COURT: That's fine.

7 I should summarize it. You are charged in this
8 indictment with a conspiracy to import narcotics, a
9 narco-terrorism conspiracy, and material support to a terrorist
10 organization.

11 How do you now plead to the charges contained in this 12 indictment, guilty or not guilty?

13 THE DEFENDANT: Not guilty, your Honor.

14 THE COURT: That's fine.

15 Let's then talk about next steps in this case. There
16 is a Florida indictment that charges Mr. Linares Castillo with 17 other serious crimes. I received a letter from the government
18 with a request that we file it under seal. Mr. Nalven is CC'd,
19 so I don't think I'm saying anything that anybody hasn't heard.
20 The request is that Mr. Linares Castillo be allowed to travel 21 down to Florida and then report back here in a couple of 22 months, correct?

23 MR. KIM: That's correct, your Honor.

24 THE COURT: And he would not be in custody during that 25 time or he would be in custody.

D4QMLINC

1 MR. KIM: He would be in the custody of the marshals,
2 your Honor.

3 THE COURT: We are here today with agents. Has 4 Mr. Linares Castillo been to pretrial services?

5 MR. KIM: He has briefly, your Honor, but Mr. Nalven
6 waived a pretrial services report.

7 THE COURT: So the plan is what in terms of bail and 8 detention?

9 MR. NALVEN: Your Honor, I'm in a position that my 10 client is a Colombian national. Because we are dealing with a
11 presumption case, we are in a position to stipulate to a
12 permanent order of detention with leave to renew, if your Honor
13 would go along with that.

14 THE COURT: That's fine. You always have a right to 15 renew. I just wasn't sure, since I don't see any marshals here
16 today.

17 MR. NALVEN: We are kind of a hybrid procedure. It's 18 almost an initial presentation and an arraignment at the same
19 time.

20 THE COURT: I think that's right. The plan then would 21 be to take Mr. Linares Castillo to the marshals after this and 22 then he would be detained, pending either a motion for bail or 23 resolution of the case, right?

24 MR. KIM: That's correct, your Honor. I think this is 25 a procedure the marshals follow at the defendant's first

D4QMLINC

1 appearance at this building now.

2 THE COURT: I'm fine with that.

3 Mr. Linares Castillo, because you've been extradited
4 from Colombia to the United States and because of the nature of 5 these crimes, there is a presumption that you would remain in 6 custody pending the trial of this case. So I am going to order
7 that you be detained, you be held by the Bureau of Prisons and 8 the marshal's service until this case is resolved.

9 If at any point you think you have a basis to seek 10 bail, in which case you would be released pending your trial in 11 this case, you can talk to Mr. Nalven and we can make an 12 arrangement to have argument on that motion. But I think in 13 this case, since you've been extradited from Colombia, that 14 would be a hard argument to win, probably.

15 I am going to order that you be detained between now
16 and the trial of this case.

17 The rest of the proposal that the government has is 18 that I schedule our next conference in June some time, correct?

19 MR. KIM: No, your Honor. The government actually had 20 requested a period of approximately four months.

21 THE COURT: Four months, I'm sorry, not two months.
22 Four months. That's a long time. That's a much longer period
23 of time than I would typically schedule the next court
24 appearance.

25 MR. KIM: I understand that, your Honor. I think

D4QMLINC

1 given the circumstances in this case, that he was charged in
2 another district, this is a proposal that the parties thought
3 reflected a good attempt to potentially resolve both cases in 4 an efficient manner.

5 THE COURT: Tell me the nature. What's the discovery
6 like in this case and has it been produced?

7 MR. KIM: Your Honor, the discovery would consist of 8 evidence related to the seizure of an airplane used to 9 transport cocaine, judicialized intercepts in Colombia of the 10 coconspirators, as well as the defendant's
11 consensually-recorded communications via BlackBerry, body wire
12 recordings, postarrest statement. It is obviously not through 13 discovery, but the evidence would also consist of the testimony
14 of cooperating witnesses.

15 If the Court is amenable to this, the parties are 16 hopeful there will be a disposition at end of four months. If 17 there is not a disposition, the government would have completed
18 discovery by that point.

19 THE COURT: Mr. Nalven, you're okay with that?

20 MR. NALVEN: Judge, I have no problem with that.
21 There is kind of the spirit of our posture since my client was 22 taken into custody as a resolution, but obviously if we can't 23 reach a resolution I'd like to have discovery and an 24 opportunity to make a motion schedule later on.

25 THE COURT: I'll go along with that. I understand

D4QMLINC

1 this is not a typical case.

2 What I would like from the government is a status
3 letter in two months to tell me what's going on. Because if 4 things have broken down I don't want to wait another two 5 months.

6 I'll schedule the next court appearance for four
7 months, which puts us at the end of August, basically.
8 September 4, at 10:30 is when we will have our next conference.
9 But I would like a status letter from the government by June 10 28. That letter should also tell me what's going on with the 11 discovery.

12 Anything else we should be thinking about or talking
13 about today?

14 MR. KIM: Your Honor, from the government, just to 15 exclude time through the date of the next conference, September
16 4, to allow the parties to continue discussions about a
17 disposition of the case and potentially for the production or 18 review of discovery.

19 THE COURT: Any objection?

20 MR. NALVEN: No. Consent, your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Mr. Linares Castillo, I should tell you
22 that you have a right to a speedy trial. What that means,
23 typically, is, within 70 days of your appearance here in court
24 today you would have that trial. Now, every case is different.
25 Some are more complicated than others, some involve a lot of

D4QMLINC

1 documents and recordings and a large volume of evidence, which
2 requires a lot of review by a defendant and his lawyer. So
3 certainly some cases will take longer than others. Because of 4 that, the law allows for a judge to extend that 70-day period
5 where it would be reasonable to do so.

6 Among the reasons that the law recognizes as 7 legitimate reasons to extend that time period is to allow the 8 parties, the defendant and the government, to discuss whether 9 they will be able to resolve the case without a trial. It also 10 is reasonable where there is a large number of wiretaps and 11 other evidence of that sort to give the defendant more time to 12 review those things and discuss them with his lawyer so that 13 they will have time to decide how best to structure their 14 defense and also whether to make any motions.

15 In this case it sounds as though the parties are 16 talking, that there is perhaps the prospects of some additional 17 conversations here and in Florida that are going to be 18 necessary to resolve. Because there are charges that are 19 outstanding in Florida, that's another reason why it would be 20 necessary, I think, to extend this time out.

21 I am going to exclude the time between now and 22 September 4. So that time between today and September 4 won't 23 count towards the 70 days that I mentioned. Think of it as 24 another way. If you think of it as a clock that is ticking and 25 there is 70 ticks on it, the court is allowed to stop the

D4QMLINC

1 clock. And I am going to stop the clock from now until 2 September, so you can consider these discussions that you've
3 already begun, and you can also begin and perhaps conclude
4 discussions with the Southern District of Florida, where there
5 are charges pending.

6 If at any point between now and September 4 you would 7 like to come back and see me, talk to Mr. Nalven and we will
8 schedule it right away. Okay. I don't want you to feel that I
9 have forgotten you for four months. If at any point you think 10 it's necessary to come back to court, talk to Mr. Nalven, he 11 will send a letter to me, and we will schedule an appearance
12 right here in court. Okay?

13 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, your Honor.

14 THE COURT: In the interests of justice I will exclude 15 the time between today and September 4. I find that your 16 interests in a speedy trial and the public's interest in a
17 speedy trial is outweighed by these other considerations that 18 I've mentioned.

19 That's all I have.

20 Anything else on anyone's mind?

21 MR. NALVEN: Nothing from our point of view, Judge.
22 Thank you very much. Have a good weekend.

23 THE COURT: Mr. Fee, you're not on the docket sheet,
24 at least you weren't on it the day or day the before. You're 25 on this case?

D4QMLINC

1 MR. FEE: I am now, your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Let's make sure you are on the docket
3 sheet.
